BATM Advanced Communications Limited
(“BATM” or the “Group”)

Capital Markets Day

BATM Advanced Communications Limited (LSE: BVC), a leading provider of real-time technologies for networking solutions and medical laboratory systems, announces that it is hosting a Capital Markets Day in London today.

The briefing will provide institutional investors and analysts with an opportunity to enhance their understanding of the Group’s business, including a detailed review of its divisions and units, through a series of presentations given by the senior management of the Group.

The presentations will be made available on the BATM website later today at:
<http://www.batm.com/investor-relations/webcasts-presentations/>

No material price-sensitive information will be disclosed and no new information relating to current trading will be provided.
