The votes against included those of a significant shareholder – excluding which, the resolution would have passed with a majority of 97.91%. Accordingly, the views of the individual shareholder are not representative of the Company’s shareholder base as a whole. The Company understands that the individual shareholder voted against resolution 10 on the basis that they believe the Board would benefit from the addition of a director with knowledge and experience in the networking and encryption markets. The Company explained that they believe the new Non-executive Director was the best candidate overall based on their other attributes. The Board takes multiple factors into consideration when assessing prospective candidates, including their experience in industries relevant to the Group’s activities, and will continue to do so.
